SOCIAL EVENTS

The Beta Gamma Sigma girls gave a Halloween dance at the Country club Saturday evening. The large club room was handsomely trimmed with streamers of yellow fluted paper from which were suspended black cats and witches. The mantle was banked with corn stalks. A table beside the mantle held a large bowl of punch. In the rear corner of the room a table trimmed in eels and lighted with candles, held the dance program. They were hand decorated. High box pumpkins lighted with candles, decorated the window sills and grained at the porch. The music for the dance was furnished by the Thompson orchestra, Madison. The favor dance was a feature of the program. The girls wore caps and the boys wore masks. George McKee was the leader and called off the different dances. A buffet lunch was served at midnight. It was one of the most attractive parties ever given in Janesville. The Jesters' state convention, and Mary Nolan, Madison and William Meade, Milwaukee, were the guests of town guests.

Mrs. Thomas Riley, Franklin street, was given a surprise party Friday evening. It was a farewell party, planned by her friends as she is leaving the city to make her home in Chicago. Canaries Sing Swan Song As Rats Enjoy Feed

Six little canaries sang their swan song. As many big rats rubbed their "tummys" after their gory feast.

These fat little canaries warbled their airs, parodies on the shopping expedition as near as they could make it, dropped their meal seeds all over the floor, shed a yellow feather here and there, and sharpened their bills all last summer much to the delight of the Bostwick Dry Goods company employees and patrons.

Then the end came, one by one. The air grew quieter and quieter. Funeral odes were chanted by the boys of the store who had attended to the housecleaning and cooking for the bird colony.

The rats got 'em, nobody knows how. A rat, a regular river rat, opened the cage gates ajar, stuck in his clawed feet, pulled forth the shrieking and fluttering bird of delightful song. Then the feast was on. What a feast! Those delectable morsels of tender canary.

'Twas a great day for the rat who discovered this enchanting array of choice food. He told his friends, maybe. Leastways the next morning another canary was gone but not forgotten. On it went until nothing was left but six empty hanging cages to tell the tale, standing monuments to the has-beens.

GRAVITATION THEORY OF NEWTON ALL UPSET

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Rome, Sunday, Oct. 26.—Newton's theory of gravitation has been attacked by Prof. Malorna, who speaking before a meeting of prominent scientists here today declared the results of experiments he had performed upset the hitherto accepted laws of physics governing the motions of celestial bodies.

Newton's theory, while hitherto considered absolute, is only an approximate hypothesis, according to Professor Malorna, who supports this assertion by showing that a ball of lead floating in mercury becomes slightly lighter.

From this the professor deduces four things:

First, that bodies have both a true and an apparent mass, the true mass of the sun being double the apparent mass.

Second, that the stars attract other bodies with forces entirely different from those thus far admitted to exist.

Third, that the solar heat of stars is generated by the force of gravitation emanating from interior strata. From this he argues the solar system has had an immensely longer life than has been believed by scientists up to the present.

Fourth, that the evolution of the world has been closely linked to the phenomenon which he has discovered.

Prof. Malorna explains by this means the fact that all stars are more or less luminous and claims that this theory will bring about a revolution in astro-physical science.

R. C. DRIVE OFFICERS MEET AT LUNCHEON

"All you need is a heart and a dollar," is the revived slogan for the third Red Cross roll call, Nov. 2-11. This slogan is enlisted again this year after bringing promising results in the past two one-dollar-membership drives.

About 15 officers of the women's organization for the drive met at a one o'clock luncheon at the home of the campaigning manager, Mrs. Herbert A. Ford, 305 Milton avenue today. Plans for the campaign to secure 10,000 new members to the society were discussed. Captains and lieutenants told of their progress in organization. The house to house canvass, the factory, business, and school canvasses were outlined.

WORLD'S RIGHT AGAIN; NO MORE STEALING MARCH ON FATHER TIME

The world's all right again. No more stealing a march on Father Time.

Most folks got up smiling yesterday morning after the extra hour of sleep. Some there were, however, who forgot to set their clocks back an hour, and for the first time found themselves at church on time.

Many a puzzled look was cast at the city hall clock, which was not regulated until noon.

By 6 o'clock it was dark, seemed strange.

ANOTHER TRAGEDY.
A second automobile, driven by a youth of sixteen years, claimed a victim within a week. The circumstances of both accidents, while different in detail, were similar in that the boys driving were of about the same age. In both cases those taken by death were over 60 years old.
One of the most difficult tasks this newspaper has been confronted with is to present the facts of Saturday's accident with the same spirit of fairness to the public as well as to the principals in the tragedy as it did the other day when another man's son was brought before the police after he had struck a woman. It is a difficult task because the youth who was operating the car is the son of the publisher of this newspaper. However, it is the policy of the Gazette to publish the news without regard to personal feelings and it has been the endeavor of those responsible for publishing the news to cover the story as fairly as they endeavor to handle any other unfortunate occurrence. The publisher of the Gazette does not want it said that his son was shielded because of any influence which might be brought through this newspaper.
The driver of the car which killed Dr. Judd was going up hill at a street intersection, at a moderate rate of speed, according to witnesses. He had passed automobiles parked on either side of a narrow street. A street car track occupies the center of the thoroughfare. The victim crossed Milwaukee street diagonally instead of using the regular crosswalk. The boy who drove the car stopped within a few feet after he had struck the physician. The father of the boy took him to the police station and turned him over to the proper officials. They released him after hearing the account of the accident. The father this morning, before the coroner's inquest was held this afternoon, asked the district attorney to follow the same procedure in handling the case as was used in the case of the boy held last week. The district attorney declared that it was not necessary as the circumstances were different and that he would wait until the coroner's jury brought in a verdict.
This editorial was written before the coroner's jury met so that it could appear before the readers as unbiased as an editorial written under the circumstances could be prepared. It was written with the idea of impressing upon the readers the desire of those connected with this newspaper and those linked to those by blood ties to be fair.
These tragedies bring to us the imperative need for immediate regulation of those who own and drive automobiles. The mere collection of a license fee of $10 per year by the state does not give assurance to the public that their lives will be safeguarded. Every year the number of automobile owners increases and as a consequence the danger to life becomes greater. A law should be enacted which would provide that NO ONE could drive an automobile in congested districts, and that would take in most cities, without having demonstrated to the proper authorities that he is capable of properly handling these high speed and powerful vehicles.
Not only should a state law be enacted but the city council should take immediate steps to pass ordinances which will for all time clear our streets of the dangers which exist because of present lack of regulation.
Milwaukee street is too narrow to allow automobiles to be parked in the manner now in practice. It is one of the main thoroughfares of the city and with the street cars running down the center it affords a continuous passageway for dangerous traffic situations. Business men on that street as well as on Main street have declared that automobiles should not be allowed to park from Division to Academy street on Milwaukee, and from North First to St. Lawrence on Main.
Janesville will have to solve this traffic problem in the near future. Increased population makes increased opportunities for such accidents as have occurred within the last week. With the assurance that this city is going to undergo a steady growth, one of the paramount duties of the council is to take immediate steps to throw safeguards around the public.
It has been suggested by Mayor Welsh that cars be parked parallel to curbs along Milwaukee street. This would not solve the difficulties on that street because it is not only one of the narrowest in the city, but more traffic passes over its surface in 24 hours than on any other street.
Perhaps such an arrangement would be beneficial on Main street as that thoroughfare is wider. But it should be understood that in case cars are allowed to be parked parallel, sufficient space must be left between each to allow easy control of the vehicles in entering or leaving the parking space. This could be done by marking out an allotment for each car and providing punishment for those who disregarded the boundaries.
If the cars are taken off Milwaukee street provision should be made in the ordinance regulating traffic that an automobile may be stopped in front of a store for a reasonable time to allow prospective purchasers to transact business. Even under such a rule a time limit should be placed.
The council is going to meet tonight and it has this opportunity to outline some sort of a traffic ordinance which will protect the public as well as not work particular hardship upon those who operate automobiles. We believe we are expressing the wishes of a large majority of Janesville citizens when we say that the council should not put off some action on this matter for another two weeks.

WARN AGAINST USE OF SACCHARIN.
The use of saccharin in place of sugar, which many housewives are being tempted to resort to in these days of sugar shortage, may involve menace to the health, and therefore is to be condemned, according to specialists in the bureau of chemistry of the United States department of agriculture. In most cases housewives have turned to this substance in their emergency, because they do not understand that saccharin is a harmful drug; to consider it a harmless, healthful substitute for sugar is absolutely false, say the government's chemists.
The department of agriculture has received a number of inquiries from housewives in the last few days concerning the properties of saccharin, and in every case it has answered by condemning the use of the drug for cooking purposes. It calls attention to the fact that the bureau of chemistry is now aiding in the prosecution of a large St. Louis concern which makes saccharin for violation of the food and drug act.
The attempt to exploit the shortage of sugar and create a demand for saccharin for use in place of sugar endeavors to capitalize the public's lack of knowledge

THE DRAWBACK.
This is the story of Timothy Wise. Timothy Wise who is known everywhere. There isn't a city or village of size. But what this remarkable brother is there. He never has risen to glory or fame. His fortune a school boy could readily count. But still there's no prize that this man couldn't claim. No ladder that he couldn't really mount. He ought to be famous and wealthy today. He can write, so he tells us, in prose or in rhyme; He could paint a great picture or model in clay. But somehow or other he never gets time.

There's never a book that he reads, but he knows That he could write one that would beat it a mile. He could pen a great play, but you know how it goes— The chores of the day must be done all the while. If he could stop working and just settle down To using the talents he claims to possess, There's nothing could keep him from fame and renown.

Without any doubt he would be a success. He could teach men in Wall Street the ways of finance. Or outpace the preachers in language sublime; Against him there's no one who'd stand any chance. If somehow or other he just had the time.

You men who have given your lives to your toil, You men who have labored professions to learn. Have struggled and studied and burned midnight oil. You feeble successes and glories to earn. Beware of the menace which hovers and lies Low over your heads as you prosper today! For the thought may occur to this Timothy Wise To jump in and take all your honors away. He'll write all the books and he'll write all the plays. He'll pass you all by when he starts in to climb; He'll make all the money and claim all the praise. If ever the day comes when he has the time. —Copyright 1919 by Edgar A. Guest

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT
—ROY K. MOULTON—

INDIAN SUMMER.
As I walked down the road this morning It seemed as though spring were here. That, of all months and seasons, Most wondrous time of year. The sunshine seemed fresh and golden. The grass seemed new and green, And I saw a thousand marvels That summer had left unseen. The air had a tang like elder. He visited with a zephyr like wine— In the distance the hills ran riot With crimson leaf and vine. But my heart was dull and saddened. Though the day was wondrous fair— For love, and a dream I cherished, Have faded into air. —H. Thompson Rich.

RECIPROCITY.
I had a second cousin and he lives out on a farm, But he became quite smitten with the city's potent charm. He visits to the city he would hail with greatest glee, And during those long winter months he visits with me here. He made his home at my house and he stayed there constantly. Yes, he did. He said: "My dear friend, this summer you must bring all your folks down And stay upon my farm, because it will be hot in town." Yes, he did. He said: "I'll notify you and you must come right away; You've got to be my summer guest; you must not let me say." Did he ever notify me? Did he name the happy day? Yes, he did—NOT.

During the French revolution the condemned had a right to elect whether they should be burned at the stake or have their heads cut off, which led Raymond Hitchcock to a dinner party the other night, to say that the people of those ancient days had their choice between stakes and chop-axes but not any more. Codfish—that's all.

ASK US

The Gazette maintains an information bureau at Washington, D. C., under the direction of Frederic J. Haskin. Questions will be answered on any subject. Those desiring information may write letter to the Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau, Washington D. C., and enclose a stamp. The letter will be answered by the bureau.

Q. How many building and loan associations are there in the United States and what are their total assets? N. L.
A. The latest figures available give 6,429 associations with a membership of 2,836,433 and assets of $1,248,476,139.
Q. How can the dust be kept down while sweeping a carpet? R. D.
A. Sprinkle salt, or cornmeal on the carpet before sweeping. To keep the carpet bright sprinkle it occasionally with a broom dipped in water to which a little turpentine has been added. This will also keep moths away.
Q. Where should I make claim for a refund of income tax? S. G. L.
A. The bureau of internal revenue says that such claims should be filed with the collector of your local district. Claims made direct to Washington are referred to the district collectors.
Q. Why are honorably discharged and disabled soldiers not served in the world war not entitled to wear the "Star" victory button? W. A. H.
A. The navy department says that sailors are entitled to wear the button and will be ready for distribution in a short time. When they are ready, it will be possible to secure them from any recruiting office.
Q. Does the United States still coin silver dollars? D. J.
A. No "cartwheel" as they are called, have been coined since 1904. There has been no authority given the treasury by congress since that time to purchase silver for the making of such coins. While silver dollars are quite rare in the east, there are a large number of them in circulation in the west.
Q. What is the population of Ukraine, and where is it situated? D. A. R.
A. Ukraine is one of the new countries of Europe. It has been carved out of Russia. It is in the southern part of Russia, and borders on the Black sea. Its population is estimated at 20,000,000.
Q. Did the Spanish influenza come from Spain? W. E. D.
A. Influenza had been present in the United States for years before it became an epidemic. There is no particular reason why it should be called "Spanish." The government has a new bulletin telling all about it which can be secured by sending a two cent stamp for return postage to the Washington information bureau of this paper.
Q. What is the full name and address of Jerome, the British humorist? V. V.
A. A letter will reach Jerome at Clapham, Marlow, Bucks, England.

ARMY PRISONS REMAKE MEN
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—A man who has received a life sentence at the hands of a court martial may be restored to the colors in the system of "salvaging" offenders which is now followed in the military prisons in this country. This is the answer which the officers in charge of these prisons make to the accusation that court martial sentences are unduly long and that a sentence in a military prison is a tentative sentence. It may be shortened, not only by the man's good conduct as in other prisons, but as a result of a study of the man's mental and physical condition and his record as a soldier and as a civilian. The army no longer aims to punish its offenders but to make the best possible use of them as human material. In its "disciplinary barracks," as the military prisons are now called, it has abandoned the punitive method for the reconstructive. The methods followed in these prisons, as described by the officers in charge of them, are thoroughly modern. They are based upon the most recent discoveries in psychology and the reconstruction of the ideas that have been worked out by the army might profitably be applied in civilian prisons.

Army Method Outlined
This can be seen upon a study of the prisons themselves, but is merely an outline of the army method, based upon an interview with an officer of experience. It is necessary to explain to the layman, in the first place that there are three types of military prisons in this country. The government has three disciplinary barracks, one at Fort Leavenworth, one at Alcatraz, Calif., and one at Governor's Island, New York. To these prisons are sent the purely military offenders, such as men who have disobeyed orders, gone to sleep on duty, or been absent without leave or have deserted. Here, also, are sent those guilty of such crimes as fighting, drunkenness and petty theft. It is in these disciplinary barracks that the reconstructive method of handling prisoners finds its fullest use.

The government has three penitentiaries, one at Leavenworth, one at Alcatraz, one at McNeil Island, near Tacoma, Wash. To these institutions are sent the men in the service who are felons, those who are convicted of murder, grand larceny, and other crimes of the more serious character.

In addition to these two classes of prisons, the government has three war-prison barracks, where interned enemy aliens and a few prisoners of war have been held. Most of these have now been deported, and these are no longer an important part of the system. In all, the army has now about 3,500 general prisoners in the disciplinary barracks, and about 850 in the federal penitentiaries.

When a man in the military service of the United States is convicted of a crime, he is sent to a disciplinary barracks. He is first of all given a thorough examination, mental, physical, and psychological. If he is found to be sane, and if he is not suffering from some organic disease, this examination is designed to discover the trouble.

Then he is then asked for the addresses of persons who know him, preferably of men for whom he has worked. A form is sent to the addresses of these, asking certain questions about the man. Similar letters are sent to the officers of the company in which he served. These letters are sent to the disciplinary barracks, the officers in charge have a pretty thorough knowledge of him. If he is a normal man who has been driven to crime by some accident of fate or environment, the examination of him will reveal his normality and his record as a civilian. If he is sane, and if he is not suffering from some organic disease, this examination is designed to discover the trouble.

Army Prisons Remake Men
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—A man who has received a life sentence at the hands of a court martial may be restored to the colors in the system of "salvaging" offenders which is now followed in the military prisons in this country. This is the answer which the officers in charge of these prisons make to the accusation that court martial sentences are unduly long and that a sentence in a military prison is a tentative sentence. It may be shortened, not only by the man's good conduct as in other prisons, but as a result of a study of the man's mental and physical condition and his record as a soldier and as a civilian. The army no longer aims to punish its offenders but to make the best possible use of them as human material. In its "disciplinary barracks," as the military prisons are now called, it has abandoned the punitive method for the reconstructive. The methods followed in these prisons, as described by the officers in charge of them, are thoroughly modern. They are based upon the most recent discoveries in psychology and the reconstruction of the ideas that have been worked out by the army might profitably be applied in civilian prisons.

Army Method Outlined
This can be seen upon a study of the prisons themselves, but is merely an outline of the army method, based upon an interview with an officer of experience. It is necessary to explain to the layman, in the first place that there are three types of military prisons in this country. The government has three disciplinary barracks, one at Fort Leavenworth, one at Alcatraz, Calif., and one at Governor's Island, New York. To these prisons are sent the purely military offenders, such as men who have disobeyed orders, gone to sleep on duty, or been absent without leave or have deserted. Here, also, are sent those guilty of such crimes as fighting, drunkenness and petty theft. It is in these disciplinary barracks that the reconstructive method of handling prisoners finds its fullest use.

The government has three penitentiaries, one at Leavenworth, one at Alcatraz, one at McNeil Island, near Tacoma, Wash. To these institutions are sent the men in the service who are felons, those who are convicted of murder, grand larceny, and other crimes of the more serious character.

Rocker Is Latest Dance, Brought Over by His Nibs

Rock, rock-a-bye baby, until the craze wanes, when this dance dies, another will come. Join the Rocker brigade! They're dancing the Rocker in the east, says George Hatch, the Terpsichorean authority in this city. He adds it is this winter to be dancing it this winter.

His nibs, the Prince of Wales, brought it over from London, where it is all the craze. He introduced the Rocker into society wherever he goes.

"They're all simply wild about it," says Mr. Hatch. "Danced to waltz time, with a cute little rock as the name implies."

Dancing teachers from the principal surrounding cities attended the dancing teacher's convention which was held in the Apollo hall yesterday afternoon, under the direction of George Hatch.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss methods by which dancing can be cleaned up and better positions in dancing introduced. Teachers of dancing, according to Hatch, are being reformed in the modern dance.

New figures which were introduced at the convention at New York city were rehearsed. Communications from many dancing teachers in the country were read.

Among those who attended were: Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Blyn, Rockford; Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Kohn, Madison; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Williams, Racine; Mrs. Wickham, Racine; Mrs. Alice Wells, Milwaukee; John Henderson, Cedar Rapids; Miss Pearl White, Chicago.

Blind, Makes Dangerous Mountain Trip on Horse

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS]
Telluride, Col.—Picking its way carefully down the steep mountain-side, avoiding the many huge rocks and numerous other pitfalls, a pack horse carried A. B. Cundy, blind in one eye, safely to his destination from a mining camp in the hills. Cundy, who had been in the camp during the day, missed the regular stage back to town. He borrowed the horse, tied himself in the saddle and negotiated the perilous journey safely.

SONG HITS, DANCES, FEATURE ORIENTAL MUSICAL COMEDY

Everything is in readiness for the initial opening of the musical comedy production, "Katcha Koo," which will be played at the Myers opera house tomorrow evening.

The production has been under rehearsal for 13 days. The cast of 200 is almost in professional proficiency, according to the producer.

Many new and attractive song hits are to be featured, such as "Susanne," "Tell Me," "You Have Opened Up the Gates of Gladness," "Here's to Uncle Sam," "When I Went to School With You," and others.

One of the prettiest dances of the entire play is "Auld Lang Syne," made up of 12 high school girls.

Among them are the Misses Winnifred Britt, Evelyn Smith, Sylvia Lynch, Catherine Buchanan, Marie McElroy, Ann Nolan, Gertrude Smith, Marion Hemmings, Adele Asser, Ann Arnold, Freida Feschel, and Ruth Meek.

Reservations of seats began at 10 o'clock this morning, the advance sale being large. All tickets must be turned in at the box office to be reserved.

Final rehearsal will be held at the opera house at 8:45 o'clock this evening. This rehearsal will be private. Only those of the cast will be admitted.

The play will be given Wednesday evening, also.

THE COW PUNCHER

BY ROBERT J. C. STEAD
Author of
"Ritchie, and Other Poems"
Copyright by Harper & Brothers

"It's very dreadful," Mrs. Hardy repeated. "But you are very thorough; you leave nothing to chance. I suppose that is the way with all big business men."

"You can trust me," Conway assured her. "There is no time to be lost, and I must plan my campaign at once."

CHAPTER XII.

Conway paused to speak to Irene before leaving the house.

"I owe you my good wishes," he said. "And I give them most frankly, although perhaps with more difficulty than you suppose."

"You are very good, Mr. Conway," she acknowledged.

"I could not wish you anything but happiness," he returned. "And had I been so fortunate as Elden, in making your acquaintance first, I might have hoped to contribute to your happiness more directly than I can under the circumstances."

He was speaking in his low, sedulous notes, and his words sent the girl's blood rushing in a surge of hope and excitement and anger and indignation. The tribute he implied—that he himself would have been glad to have been her suitor—was skillfully planned to appeal to her vanity, and her anger was due to its success. She told herself she should not listen to such words; she should hate to hear such words. And yet she listened to them, and was not sure that she hated them. She could only say:

"You are very good, Mr. Conway."

He pressed her hand at the door, and said that strange mixture of emotions surged through her.

Conway proceeded to the business section of the town, with crowds with the evening's events. He found his way impeded by crowds in front of the newspaper offices. He had paid little attention to the progress of the war scare, attributing it to the skillful planning of the manufacturer of armaments. To the last he had not believed that war was possible.

"Nobody wants to fight," he had assured his business associates, and the armament people don't want to fight. All they want is to frighten more money out of the taxpayers of Europe. To Conway this explanation seemed very complete, it covered the whole ground and left nothing to be said.

But tonight he was aware of a keener tension in the crowd atmosphere. They were good-natured crowds, to be sure, laughing and cheering and making sallies of heavy wit; but they were in some way more intense than he had ever seen.

The Daily Novelette

BURNED ALIVE.

"Dearest," she said, rather faintly, "isn't it getting terribly hot?"

"No, you're crazy, love. Maybe you've been thinking too warmly of some subject." And he resumed eating his dinner.

A minute passed.

"Really, Oozie, don't you think the heat is getting hotter?" she asked, as she wiped some perspiration from her face. She was a round, plump, meek little thing.

Just then a wave of intense heat drenched them both.

He could contradict her no longer. "It is getting warmer," he assented, grudgingly agreeing with her, as he went to the window for a breath of fresh air.

"Oh, Oozie! Suppose the house is on fire!" she cried, with fright.

"No," he shrieked. "It is outside! The whole town is on fire!"

"Great heavens! Maybe the world's a vast furnace to its heart!"

They could hear the dropping of—yes it must be—fallen timbers.

Outside they could hear the sizzling of their clothes—the cracking of walls as they burst—the ruin of their home and their friends and neighbors' homes and death—a horrible death, for them all.

It was frightful! And the scorching, frizzling heat became unbearable. It was just rendering them—helpless.

"Help!" he cried. The crashes and jars appalled them, and although the sounds of voices came aside, reaching their ears, nobody heard their moans.

So, at last, suffocated with the heat, the poor little worms fell onto each other's necks, and roared to death in a chestnut in the pan of Tony Snagetti over a charcoal fire.

MR. THOMPSON TRIES TO HELP A FRIEND DISPOSE OF A 1913 MODEL.

IS THAT SO?? AND THEY JUST TOLD ME IT COULD RUN ON ANY CAR ON THE ROAD!!

I KNEW IT! I KNEW THAT KID WOULD QUEER EVERYTHING GOOD NIGHT!!

WHY ARE YOU TELLING SO MANY LIES ABOUT THAT AUTOMOBILE, PAPA? YOU TOLD MAMMA THAT IT WOULDN'T RUN!!

When Jack and Jane had finished their breakfast of mush and milk the little old woman said:

"Now, see here, I should keep you folks in that bedroom with the bath and wash all the time, but I'm going to let you play in the yard back of the house. It's got a high fence around it which you can't climb over. If you play quietly I'll let you stay out. If you call or scream loud enough so that someone outside might hear the 'll yank you into your bedroom and you'll stay there the rest of the time."

Happy at the thought of being able to get out into the sunlight and fresh air again, Jack and Jane said they would play quietly and not try to attract any attention. So the little old woman unlocked the door and let the way into the yard.

"It was a really, truly big yard with a nice lawn and some flowers and a tree or two, like the children had back home in Maple Bellevue town. It was a little yard, just about as big as two ordinary rooms. The grass was having a hard time growing because the high fence and the building kept the sun from getting into the yard for more than an hour or two a day. But the sun was shining into it now and though the children didn't feel like romping they walked around the yard together and looked about as much as the fence would allow them.

Now and then the children heard people talking on the other side of the fence, but in all the time they were in the yard they heard no autos or wagons. Jack noticed that and said to Jane: "We must be away from Naples, because there aren't any horses or autos going by and we can't see any buildings beyond the houses next door."

That afternoon, when the little old woman allowed them to go into the yard again, both the children were surprised to hear the deep-toned whistle of a big ocean vessel. They had heard the ships at Brest took their fog-horn whistles, so they knew the sound.

"I know where we are now," said Jack. "We're right on the bay of Naples. Maybe we're right on the shore and if we could look over the fence in the back yard we could see the water."

Both of the children were so eager to find out if they were really right on the edge of the bay that they began to hunt for something that would help them see over the fence, forgetting what the little old woman had said, about attracting attention. It was just as well for them that they couldn't find a box, board, chair or anything that would "boost" them high enough to get a glimpse of what lay beyond the fence. For, had the little old woman caught them, I'm sure she would have carried them back to their room and locked them up in their bed.

But the fact that they were near the bay seemed to cheer the children up quite a bit because it made them feel as if they weren't so many miles from Captain Brava and Ladydada, and the other folks must be hunting for them.

Would Walk the Floor for Hours

Was Nervous and Run Down After Six Years Trouble—Gains 15 Pounds

"Nothing ever helped me until I got Tanlac and now I am feeling just like an entirely different man," said Mrs. John Winkelmann, residing at 676 Lapham St. Milwaukee, Wis., in an interview, recently. While relating her experience with Tanlac, Mrs. Winkelmann made the remarkable statement that her weight has increased fifteen pounds and that the medicine has also elevated her in digestion and other troubles from which she had suffered for six years.

"Up to the time I began taking Tanlac," she continued, "my stomach had troubled me continuously for six years. No matter what I ate I was suffering from gas on my stomach. Why, I would almost smother at times, and my heart would palpitate so hard it frightened me. I had fearful headaches every day and, sometimes, so bad as to almost drive me distracted. I also suffered with severe pains in my back and shoulders and the least exertion would just completely exhaust me. My nerves were so shattered I could hardly bear the children about me, and for five years and a half my condition was so bad I had to hire part of my work done. My mind was so unstrung that I would sometimes just sit and tremble. Some nights I was unable to sleep a wink and so restless that I would just stay up and walk the floor.

"I had gotten to be very thin and so run down and weak that I just felt miserable all the time. I had those awful headaches at night and would get up in the mornings feeling so badly that I could hardly drag one foot after the other. Well, this is just the condition I was in when I read about Tanlac and told my husband I was going to try it again. I had something about it, but just suited my case exactly, and to tell it all in as few words as possible, I now have no more stomach trouble, nervousness or pain of any kind, and I sleep as soundly as a child every night. I eat hearty, feel strong and I will always praise Tanlac for what it has done for me."

Tanlac is sold in Junesville by all leading druggists.

Bear Oil Grows Hair

One of the potential ingredients of Kotalek—for the hair—is genuine bear oil, procured through hunters at a large cost. There are other active ingredients not found in any other hair preparation. Kotalek is an ointment. It has succeeded in many cases of baldness, falling hair and dandruff when every other hair lotion or treatment has proved futile. A $3.00 guarantee is offered to Kotalek users if you can grow hair. If others have obtained a new growth of hair, you can, too. Why not? Get a box at any busy drug store, or send 10 cents, plus postage, to John Hart Brittain, BX-361, Station B, New York City. Cut this out and show others this advertisement.

BLISS NATIVE HERB TABLETS

Tonight at Bedtime

If you feel out-of-sorts, run-down, or "in" from over exertion, or if you are constipated, or your liver is out of order, or you have severe cases of headache or rheumatism, or you will get up next morning feeling very much better. Bliss Native Herb Tablets act gently but effectively on the kidney, liver and bowels. The dollar box contains 200 tablets, and usually lasts six months. Get the genuine, and look for the trade mark and name on each tablet, and usually lasts six months. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00. Sold by leading druggists and local agents everywhere. Made by Alonzo O. Bliss Co., Washington, D. C.

Dinner Stories

"I see you have a scarecrow in your field," said the vacationist to the old farmer; do you find it effective?

"Sittingly!" replied the farm. "So many blamed tramps cross over to see if the clothes on it are worth stealing! It keeps the birds away."

A certain young actress had a small part in a "war" drama—a very small part—and she was not satisfied. So one morning, after rehearsal, she set out to interview the boss.

"I have only one line in the first act," she pointed out, "but one in the second. Couldn't you give me a line for the third act also?"

The actor-manager thought for a moment.

"Well, yes," he replied. "When the bombardment scene is on, and the hero is crouching in his dugout, you may enter and say, 'Here is a dud!'"

"Oh, thanks!" she exclaimed. "And do I bring an unexploded shell on the stage with me?"

"No," answered the actor-manager. "It's no speech, my dear; it's a confession."

"What's the matter?" asked Dubson.

"My daughter insists on going as a missionary to Tibet. Think of the hardships she will have to face!" said Grubson.

"You're lucky. My daughter insists on marrying a poet," was Dubson's comment.

In giving vent to his feelings on his charge, an old soldier wrote to his late colonel: "Sir—After what I have suffered, you can tell the army to go to hell."

In due course he received the following: "Sir—Any suggestions or inquiries as to movement of troops must be entered on Army Form 123, XXIV, a copy of which I enclose."

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after-effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, gripping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without giving minor or disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c.
